

ShareLove.Fund

ShareLove.Fund is a free nonprofit yoga school founded by Ashley Share in 2020. The tax exempt 501(c)(3) charitable organization is headquartered in Rye, New York, and is operational globally through its customized YouTube channel offering free daily content releases for their yoga Alliance accredited degree program. ShareLove.Fund was established as a response to the Covid-19 pandemic and is known for offering free yoga teacher certification programs, vocational yoga degrees, and job placement support to women ages 14-24 as well as pregnant teenagers and incarcerated women, including the women in custody at 'Rosie's,' which is the women's ward at Rikers Island jail in New York, NY.^{[1][2][3]}

The aim behind the establishment of ShareLove.Fund was to create such a platform that allows the participants to earn a livelihood, develop a new skill set and develop positive self-esteem. The Tax exempt 501(c)(3) charitable organization, within a year, has gained recognition for its services and has been awarded Guidestar's Platinum Seal of Transparency for 2021 and has been featured in several media outlets including The Eden Magazine, Palisadian Post, Muck Rack, American Yacht Club, Topsy Turvey Yogi, and others.^{[4][5]}

History

ShareLove.Fund was founded in 2020 by Ashley Share after witnessing a rise in the number of women suffering as a result of COVID-19. The Tax exempt 501(c)(3) charitable organization was created with the aim to empower juniors, at-risk, and incarcerated women and help them financially by facilitating yoga classes and offering certificate programs. ShareLove.Fund also helps women to become self-supporting members of society.^{[6][7]}

The programs offered by ShareLove.Fund are designed to serve and empower women members as well as provide valuable fundraising for our organization. ShareLove.Fund provides in-person programming throughout the calendar year in New York, virtually through Zoom, and at various retreat locations.. In order to fund the free services offered by the institute, ShareLove.Fund also sells merchandise, accepts tax-deductible donations, and sells the yoga certification courses to those who do not qualify for a fee waiver. Since its inception, ShareLove.Fund has helped over 1,000 women between the ages of 9 and 60.^{[8][9]}

All the donations received by the organization go to supporting at-risk teenagers and women.^[10]

Services

ShareLove.Fund is affiliated with numerous yoga instructors, yoga schools and retreats, which offer all five yoga Alliance teacher training certification programs including RYT 200, RYT 300, RCYT, RPYT, and continuing yoga education.^{[11][12][13][14]}

Apart from the certification programs the charitable organization also offers mindfulness continuing legal education (CLE) and mindfulness continuing real estate education (CREE) to the general public for a course fee.^{[15][16][17]}

The Prenatal Teenager Program offered by ShareLove.Fund is a free yoga Alliance approved teacher training program that helps pregnant teenagers graduate from high school with an accredited yoga teaching certificate and also promises job security from either ShareLove.Fund or an affiliated yoga studio.^{[18][19]}

Apart from that the website offers a vast range of merchandise such as clothes, accessories, daily use objects, stationary etc.^{[20][21][22][23][24]}
