Alcohol Abuse Is on the Rise, but Doctors Too Often Fail to Treat It to the complete understanding of the meaning behind these couple of words? Within society, there is no shortage of stereotypes. Individuals being judged simply by this overly simplified and general view of their outside cover. Skin... race... hobbies. This human instinct takes over our subconscious, in our minds, classifying something as dangerous, or weird. Are all Latin Americans uneducated? No. Are all BIPOC people living in economically disadvantaged communities a threat? No. Are all Caucasian varsity athletes necessarily arrogant? No. But today, the question I will address is, does gender determine what can and can't be done? And similarly, the answer is no.

Just like skin color and race, gender is a very stereotyped topic. The expectations between males and females are on separate ends of a spectrum. One is a lazy housewife and the other is the knight in shining armor providing for his family. Take your guess as to which one represents males, and which one represents females. Although over time, the lines between gender roles have become more blurred rather than rigid, rising companies in which women are empowered, such as ShareLoveFund, will allow for those lines to disappear. As a young woman myself, I have learned from a young age to always be alert of my surroundings and the constant agony of having to depend on others to feel safe. That sure isn't what any teenager wants to keep in mind whenever in public. Is this too revealing? Is it okay to wear my hair up? Keep in mind, a woman's everyday actions can determine whether or not she will come home surrounded by alpha male figures. which brings to question how historical women such as Katherine Johnson, Dorothy Vaughan and Mary Jackson, had such a life altering impact on NASA, a space in which they were pushed down and rejected. As a 14 year old female, still somewhat shielded from the real world, not many gender issues have arised. But rather than being ill prepared for the future, I chose to use it to my advantage. Surrounding myself with women who have had many altercations, and others who are like me, just peeking into the unfairness from a back seat. If nothing else, ShareLove.Fund has taught me
